

Contract Survey Pilot

Keystone Aerial Surveys is a leading airborne data acquisition company. We are currently seeking Contract Survey Pilots to conduct survey operations in high performance Cessna 200/300, Piper Navajo or Cessna 441 series aircraft originating from our headquarters in Philadelphia, PA with deployments throughout the US.

An ideal Keystone Aerial Survey Pilot will not only be able to fly safely and efficiently but be willing and able to learn and apply all the concepts, procedures and tasks related to aerial surveying. It is preferred that pilots are able to work at least a two weeks on/two week off schedule, but longer deployments are preferred. As all survey work is based on clear weather, pilots can expect to fly 30-40 hours per week, depending on conditions. Pilot non-flying duties include; preparing/coordinating missions, post flight reporting, aircraft cleaning/organizing, and other tasks as assigned by Flight Department management.

Required Experience:

- Minimum 100 US airspace hours in one of the aircraft types mentioned above.
- Must have Commercial/Single/Multi-Engine Rating, High Performance Endorsement & Instrument Current & proficient
- Average 1500TT

Compensation: Starting salary $175 - $250/day, depending on experience – No Benefits

In addition to the requirements listed above, qualified applicants should have proven:

- single-pilot flight experience
- experience flying in Class B airspace
- strong computer/technical skills.
- strong communication skills, both verbal and written
- attention to detail with the ability to demonstrate confidence, professionalism, high self-motivation and solid decision-making abilities

Why work for Keystone? We offer an opportunity for pilots to utilize all their skills: cross country, IFR, high altitude, low altitude, operating in all airspace, etc. Keystone's fleet consists only of high performance aircraft, mostly multi-engine. In this position, pilots will be able to apply their intelligence in addition to their piloting skills to accomplish something more challenging than 'point A to point B' flying. We are a thriving, growing organization.

If you are confident that you possess the aptitude and qualifications to work for Keystone, please send your cover letter and resume to resume@kasurveys.com
